As announced by invitations, sent out to about fifty neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Voorbess and family of Gravesend, L. I., witches, ghosts and hobgoblins and fairles held sway at the Voorbess residence in the village Saturday evening from 7.30 to 12 o'clock. Following instructions and giving the requisite number of raps, the company was admitted amid uncanny sounds, to be received by two ghosts and ushered in under the guidance of the witches, The decorations were in keeping with Hallowe'en, jack-o'-lanterns appearing in unlooked for places, and bobbing apples amid the fluttering leaves of the corn stalks extended from the ceiling. Miss Demorest, wrapped in a mantle of midnight blackness, presided as mistress of ceremonies, furnishing a full programme of enjoyable surprises, many prizes rewarding the contestants in the games. An auction, where payment was made in magic beams, a bag having been handed each guest upon entering with the instruction to guard them well, proved a source of much merriment as the souvenirs were displayed and the prophecy of the future occupation of the receivers was announced. Fortune telling provided diversion, the original predictions provided for the young people being especially amusing. The fortune teller's booth was well patronized. Refreshments were served.
